If a casino appears on relevant blacklists, it is usually a sign that it has some negative qualities. Player complaints signify that the casino does not treat players right or deal with certain situations correctly. We go over the terms and conditions of each casino and look for unfair rules that could potentially be used against players. Moreover, casino promotions can also include bonus codes, welcome sign-up bonuses, or loyalty programs. In our casino reviews, we always collect data about available languages and customer support options.

Relying on the collected data, we compute an overall user satisfaction score that varies from Terrible to Excellent. Every time we review an online casino, we go through the Terms and Conditions of each casino in detail and examine how fair they are.
